THOUSANDS AT ORLAND PARK FIREMEN PICNIC

It is estimated that fully five thousand persons attended the parade and picnic sponsored by the Orland Park Fire Department Sunday at Orland Park.

The parade was colorful and interesting. Bands from Lemont and New Lenox together with 70 baton twirlers clad in bright snappy uniforms added color to the parade which was headed by Henry Kimmel riding a horse and carrying a large American flag.

There were a number of beautifully decorated floats. Prizes were awarded as follows:

Pure Milk Float 1st Prize Winner

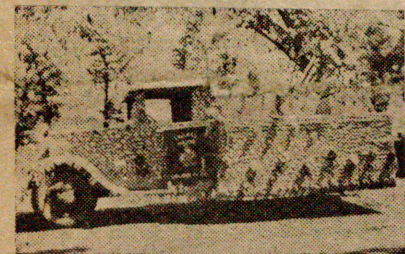

Pure Milk Float first prize; Orland Park RNA Juveniles 2nd prize; Summit Fire Department third prize.

Those on the float were Irwin Yunker, Lois Cooper and Dorothy Yunker.

Fire Departments from Lemont, Mokena, Oak Lawn, Summit, Willow Springs and Palos Heights had their fire trucks.

The truck on which the Pure Milk float was built was loaned by Supervisor Fred E. Yunker and the decoration work was done by Henry Boldt of Tinley Park.

At the end of the parade which wound up in the Gee Grove by the Orland Lake, the big picnic got under way. In the evening open air dancing was enjoyed.

RNA Juveniles Float 2nd Prize

Three major prizes were awarded in the evening as follows:

First prize, radio phonograph, Wm. Stelter, Orland Park; second prize, kodak, Mrs. George Yunker, Orland Park; third prize, William Semmler, Mokena, electric floor lamp. These were all good, substantial prizes and are much appreciated by the winners.

Thank You Chief!

We, the members of the Orland Park Fire Department want to convey our thanks to you, Chief Jack Helenhouse for your splendid work and efforts which made possible the big success of our parade and picnic last Sunday.

MEMBERS ORLAND PARK FIRE DEPARTMENT

CHICKEN DINNER FEATURE OF PICNIC

This coming Sunday, July 27, St. Mary's parish will hold their annual picnic and chicken dinner. Serving will begin 12 to 3. There will be games for everyone. All are welcome to attend for a good time.

ST. JUDE PICNIC SUNDAY, AUG. 3rd

The annual picnic of the St. Jude parish of New Lenox will be held Sunday, August third in the Oak Grove 2 miles east of New Lenox. There will be games and sports of all kinds. A chicken dinner will be served from 12 to 4.

Everyone invited for a good time and good eats.

More Draft Age Information Given

Paul G. Armstrong, State Director of Selective Service, has received word from Washington that, henceforth, registrants who were under 28 years old on July 1 but who have since reached that age and who are otherwise qualified will be accepted for induction into the army. Registrants who are volunteers and who meet the physical requirements will be inducted regardless of their birth dates.

Observe 75th Camp Grounds Anniversary At New Lenox

The old time camp meeting spirit will be recreated on the Methodist camp grounds, New Lenox, Illinois, on Sunday, July 27, when the diamond jubilee of the Centenary camp meeting will be observed. A program has been prepared which will include both afternoon and evening sessions.

Homer Rodeheaver, world's greatest leader of religious song, will have charge of the opening song service at 3:30 p.m., daylight time. Accompaniment will be played on an electric organ by George Brewster, who was with Billy Sunday for several years.

Bishop James H. Straughn will preach the sermon at the afternoon service. Bishop Straughn was president of the Methodist Protestant church at the time when it was united with other Methodist bodies in 1939. He is now bishop of the Pittsburgh area. Dr. Chas. Drake Skinner, district superintendent of the Joliet-Dixon District, will preside.

In the evening at 7:00 p.m. a youth meeting will be conducted by the Rev. Richard W. Miller, Rock River conference director of religious education. This will be followed by another song service in charge of Mr. Rodeheaver at 8:00 p.m.

The closing minutes of the day will be devoted to the Jubilee historical pageant which is written and directed by Miriam Luecke Angus of Crete.

Rev. Clark J. Wood, pastor of Trinity Methodist church in Joliet is general chairman of the celebration.

The Centenary campmeeting association was organized in 1866, and its grounds comprise about 21 acres at New Lenox, six miles east of Joliet on Route 30. In April, 1869, the general assembly of the state of Illinois granted a charter to the organization. Men named as trustees at that time were Otis Hardy, Abel Bliss, John Crawford, Harvey Evans, Elijah L. Brayton, Russell Seager, Joseph Lewis, John S. Jessup and John S. McGraw.

Regular camp meetings continued on the grounds until about 20 years ago when the sessions were changed to those of a young people's institute. The 1941 institute completed its week's session last Sunday under the direction of the dean, the Rev. A. A. Bauman, pastor of the Richards Street Methodist church, Joliet.

Frankfort Judge Makes Interesting Southern Trip

Recently Judge and Mrs. J. C. Knight of Frankfort enjoyed a trip to Camp Croft, S. C., to visit with their son Irving, who is doing fine and enjoying army life.

They also visited with Dr. and Mrs. Chas. Landon in Durham, N. C. Dr. Landon is a professor of economics in Duke University. Mrs. Landon is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Knight. They also visited Fort Beau fort, N. C.

Among other points of interest seen were Norfolk, Va., and Newport News, largest ship yard in the world. The British aircraft carrier Illustrious which was badly damaged in a battle with the Nazis is in this yard undergoing repairs that will take a year to complete.

They visited the tomb of Admiral Farragut at Norfolk and crossed a bridge requiring $1.40 for toll.

Yorktown where the British Gen. Cornwallis surrendered to Gen. Geo. Washington was also a point of interest. Fredericksburg, Va., rich in Washington history was also visited and here the wills of George and Martha Washington are to be seen.

Bardstown, Ky., was another interesting spot. Here in St. Bartholomew's Catholic church are hung rare paintings of French masters. These paintings are said to be worth $600,000. The Talbot Tavern dating back to 1779 and said to be the oldest tavern in operation in America was visited and the famous murals painted on its walls by banished Frenchmen are a source of admiration. Another historical shrine seen was the home of John Fitch, steamboat inventor. At Hodgenville, Ky., the Lincoln Memorial was a point of great interest.

10 BIDS PUT IN FOR TINLEY WATER MAIN EXTENSION

Bids from ten contractors for furnishing and laying 3,500 feet of 6 inch cast iron water mains in Tinley Park were opened and read at a special meeting of the Tinley Park village board Wednesday night of this week. The board did not take any action on the bids but will consider them and award the job at the next regular board meeting on Monday night August the 4th or reject all bids.

Homer Rodeheaver will lead Diamond Jubilee Song Service

Mokena Home Coming Committees Active

The Mokena Civic Association is a very busy group these days preparing for their annual Home Coming and Fall Festival to be held 3 days, August 22, 23 and 24.

President Alfred Hatch has appointed the following committees, the first name listed being that of the chairman:

Decorations—Elmer Cooper, Barney Hostert, Harold Balaz, James Egerton.

Entertainment and Public Relations—A. C. Hatch, Walter Olson, Morris Larson.

Refreshments—Harold Spiess, William Lowe, Hugo Niethammer, Henry Shevlin, Irvin Marti, John Fox, B. Needham, August Pfeiffer, Marshall Muller, G. Kreml.

Construction—Adolph Steen, Barney Hostert, Elmer Cooper, James Egerton, Stokes Nebeker.

Publicity—Robert Geuther, A. C. Hatch, Robert Bechstein, William Semmler.

Sunday Parade—Stokes Nebeker, B. Needham.

Exhibition and Display—Rev. W. J. Geffert, Emil Krapp, Adolph Steen, Paul Roessner, Gerald Dunn, Lawrence Kohl.

Games—Barney Hostert, Richard Kohl, Raymond McGuire, Dave Mc-

Millan, James Egerton. Bingo Game: Robert Geuther, Nick Heiman, Fred Rauch, Willard Martie, George Rinke, Irvin Rinke, J. Knowles, Norvel Robinson, Edward Laffey.

Pop Gun Game: Frank Clevenger, H. P. Rose, Wilber Teske, Slim Werner, George Lauffer.

Arthur Shoop, Irwin Howes, Joe Hayden, August Werner.

Bottle Game: Everett Cooper, Wilis Hall, Lloyd Warming.

Hooligan Game: Harold Cooper, Walter Olson, Benard Benson, Stokes Nebeker, A. Bueschel and Clarence Mast.

Wash Tub Game: Alvin Sorenson, Leon Tonn, Charles Rinke.

Cat Game: Paul Meyers, Charles Rose, Alvie Spiess, Orville Werner. Medical First Aid: Dr. E. G. McMahon, Boy and Girl Scouts and the Red Cross.

Names Aluminum Depository

Mayor Harry F. Mall of Mokena has designated Cooper & Hostert Garage as a place to deposit old aluminum in the scrap aluminum drive which ends July 29. Mayor Mall says committees will be appointed later.

Orland High School Enroll Pupils Aug. 4-5

All students who are thinking of attending The New Community High School this fall should register without fail at the Orland School either Monday or Tuesday, August 4th or 5th between 1 and 9 P.M. daylight time.

This notice applies to all students regardless of the school district in which they happen to live or the school previously attended.

Many important changes in the Orland School are contemplated by The Board of Education of The New District. The purchase of considerable new equipment is anticipated. The addition of a fourth year to the schools program is being considered. If sufficient students indicate an interest in attending The Orland Community High School, a wider choice of elective courses and low-cost bus transportation will probably be offered.

Expanded sports, physical education, science library, commercial, shop, music and art facilities are contemplated.

All courses offered will be under the strict supervision of The State Department of Education and will be fully accredited.

If you are uncertain as to what school to choose and would like to know more of Orland's plans, you are invited to drop in at The Orland School and talk things over with Mr. Rawland, the Principal, on or before August 5th.

Great Crowds See WLS Entertainers

The picnic held at the Frankfort Grove Sunday afternoon and evening by the Frankfort Fire Department drew a great crowd. The WLS radio stars, Otto, Little Genevieve, Mack and Bob, Hay Loft Trio, Joe Kelly and Georgie Goebel and his band were the headliners and were greatly enjoyed. In the evening barn dances and square dances with Guy Colby calling drew a big patronage. All in all the affair was a great success in every way.

Mokena Civic Association Committee Chairmen Named By President

The following permanent committees of the Mokena Civic Association have been appointed by President A. C. Hatch:

Finance: R. A. Bechstein, J. Knowles; Publicity, Wm. Semmler. Audit: Jas. Knowles. Social and Entertainment: Walter Olson.

Enterprise and investigation: Raymond McGuire.

Grievance: Chas. B. Elder. Health and Sanitation, Dr. E. G. McMahon.

Historian: Arthur Shoop. The parties above named are the chairmen of their respective committees.

Editor's Daughter In Charge Of Tinley Office

Miss Adeline Semmler, daughter of the editor, is now in charge of the Tinley Park Times office in Tinley Park. The office is open at 9 a. m., and closes at 5 p. m. A telephone has been installed and the number is Tinley, Park 298W.

The Tinley Park plant is equipped to do all kinds of job work.

Herman Gee Wins In Neatest Farm PMA Contest

The 200-acre Herman Gee farm, Orland Park, was named Wednesday as District 13 winner in the 8th annual neatest dairy farm contest sponsored by the Pure Milk association, Chicago. The Gee farm scored highest in neatness and cleanliness among thirteen Pure Milk farms in this district which competed in the 1941 contest.

It was District 13 that the Neat Farm contest was inaugurated back in 1934, the John T. Cooper farm taking the first championship title. District 13 winners since then have been Henry Henke, Tinley Park, in 1936; Charles Mark, Frankfort, 1937; T. T. Tesdal, Morris, 1938; James McGrath, Mahattan, 1939; Albert A. Brockway, Plainfield.

Mr. Gee has been a Pure Milk member for the last five years, entered the 1939 contest and took 3rd place. This year his barn was blown down just about a month before the judging, but he went right ahead getting ready for the contest. His herd of 30 purebred Brown Swiss averaged 450 pounds of butter fat last year and he is shipping over 700 pounds of milk a day. He is a strong advocate of dairymen growing all their own feed. The Gees have two children Donald 3, and Marilyn one year old. Their prize will be a 45 piece silverware service for eight.

Second prize in District 13 went to Peter Haas, a charter member of Pure Milk association whose 120 acre farm near Joliet took Award of Merit plaques in 1934, 1935 and 1936 contests. Mr. Haas will receive a 35-piece of silverware service for six for scoring second highest in the district.

The 120 acre farm of Robert Jungles near Lockport, took third place. The Jungles have been PMA shippers for eleven years, but this was their first year in the contest. The whole family pitched in and helped said Mr. Jungles. They have two boys, 10 and 17 years old, and three girls 8, 14, and 19. Their prize is a 26 piece silver ware for six.

Other high scoring farms in District 13 were those of Charles Mark, Frankfort, and Paul T. Brown, Morris, third place winner last year.

Senior award of merit awarded farms scoring 90 per cent or higher. Paul T. Brown, R. 2 Morris; Chas. Mark, R. 2, Frankfort.

Mokena Civic Group Awards Radio Phonograph

At the meeting of the Mokena Civic Association held in Hatch Hall Monday night a radio phonograph was awarded to Fred Clark of Mokena. The Association welcomed a new member, Charles Rose.

The Association has also gone on record to pay toward the cost of having the headstones on pioneers graves in the Pioneer Memorial Cemetery, repaired and set in concrete.

In the absence of Paul J. Roessner the secretary, due to illness, R. A. Bechstein substituted as secretary.

FATHER AND 4 CHILDREN ESCAPE INJURY

A father and four children had a narrow escape from injury and death Monday evening when the automobile they were riding in became stalled on the old school house crossing in the east end of Mokena and was struck by an eastbound Rock Island streamliner.

The father seeing the streamliner approaching grabbed two children sitting in the front seat and jumped but was unable to get the two children in the back seat out.

The engineer of the streamliner saw the predicament the autoist was in and slowed down but could not get the train to a stop. The streamliner hit the front end of the car,

Hit by R. I. streamliner; no one hurt and spun it around hurling it over and clear of the west bound main track, but the car did not upset and the children in the rear set did not get hurt. The motor of the auto was damaged, the bumper was torn off and one of the front tires was cut.

A dent was knocked in the front of the diesel locomotive and some paint was scraped off.

It was a miracle that no one got hurt. All suffered a bad scare.

Later the man had the car towed to a place in the Alpine subdivision, but did not give his name.

Later in the evening a Rock Island claim agent came to Mokena, and was unable to learn who the family was.

Bill Introduced To Recover Will County Tax Loss

Thru the splendid work and efforts of County Clerk Joe Hartley, of Will County, Senator Louis W. Lucas of Illinois has introduced a bill in congress asking that the federal government stand the loss of the tax revenue Will County has sustained by the location of the munition plant at Wilmington and Elwood. It provides that the United States government pay annually out of money in the treasury not otherwise appropriated the sum of $41,840.77 each year beginning with the year 1941 to Will County for the purpose of re-imbursement the county and taxing bodies of the county for the loss of taxes in real and personal property by reason of acquisition of such property by the United States for the establishment of a munition plant.

In a letter to County Clerk Joe Hartley, Senator Lucas writes:

"As I advised bill S. 1747 has been referred to Senate Committee on Claims and I have been advised by chairman of the Committee he has asked both the war and treasury departments for reports. Have urged committee to take action and shall continue efforts on its behalf."

TINLEY SCOUTS TO AID IN ALUMINUM COLLECTION DRIVE

Mayor Charles F. Niemann of Tinley Park advises that Tinley Park is taking an active part in the drive for the collection of old aluminum as is being made in various communities and the Tinley Park Boy Scouts will make a canvass this week end and the forepart of next week to collect old aluminum. All the organizations in Tinley Park as well as the citizens are invited to assist in the drive which ends July 29.

If you have any old and outworn aluminum utensils which you would like to donate such aluminum may be given to Police Chief C. A. Steinhagen or brought to the village hall.

Mayor Niemann would like to have Tinley Park make as good a showing as possible in this drive.

Operation of New Farm Parity Measure Puts U. S. Agriculture on 'Business' Basis

WASHINGTON. — When the history-making Farm Parity law went into effect the first of this month American agriculture began for the first time to operate like a gigantic manufacturing organization, with every farmer guaranteed a definite sales price for the things he produces — whether cereals, meats, fats, dairy products, tobacco, eggs, fruits, poultry or cotton.

What does parity mean and how does it operate?

Simply that from now on the American farmer will receive prices for his products that will give him a purchasing power equal to that which he held in the pre-World War years of 1909 to 1914. That was one of the most favorable farm price periods in history. The farmer is guaranteed a crop loan rate of 85 per cent, figured on a fixed valuation basis. If prices go above parity he reaps the benefit. If they fall below that valuation the farmer's crops go into the government's surplus bins and Uncle Sam takes the loss.

The parity law will add a billion dollars to American farm income this year, agricultural economists predict. It will generate a buying power that will be translated into expanding purchases of practically every commodity the farmer uses.

Manufacturers have usually been able to name the price at which they wished to sell the volume of their output. Now a floor has been placed under farm prices similar to the floor under industrial income. So the farmer can roll up his sleeves and pitch in with the knowledge that he has been placed virtually on an economic equality with industry. With the manufacturer such a program has required good judgment concerning costs, desired profit, supply and demand, competition and the volume of production. To all intents and purposes a similar responsibility has been placed on agriculture.

$1.15 Wheat Assured.

In order to prevent price breaks due to overproduction, safeguards restricting the volume of farm output have been set by the new law. And to protect prices further, surpluses of the farmer's production are limited to quantities that can be easily absorbed by the Federal Surplus Commodity corporation.

Sponsors of the law believe it will assure farmers a return of at least $1.15 a bushel for wheat, 87 cents a bushel for corn, and 16 cents a pound for cotton. With an increasing demand for farm products for defense purposes and the "Feed Britain" program under the lease-lend bill, prices may easily rise above these levels.

One thing is certain. Farm income and farm expenditures will be sharply increased by this new parity law. Last year agriculture received $9,120,000,000 for its production. The 1941 income will mount well over $10,000,000,000, according to current forecasts of the U. S. department of agriculture. History has demonstrated that when national farm income rises above $7,000,000,000 a year, agricultural expenditures rise about as sharply as income.

Another favorable factor is that at the present time the farmer has a good deal of last year's production

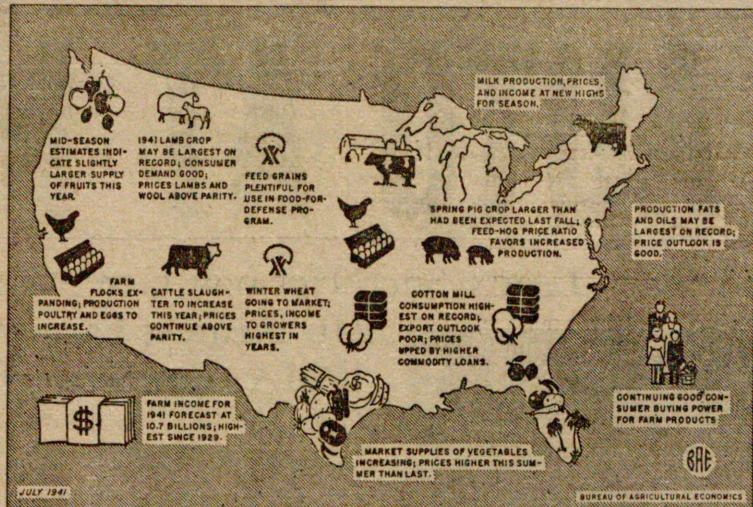

Edward O'Neal, president of the American Farm Bureau federation. Operation of the farm parity measure culminates 25 years of effort on the part of this organization to bring about these benefits.

Army Heads Are Endangered by Recent War Games

WASHINGTON. — Uncle Sam has discovered startling weaknesses in army personnel, brought to light by recent war games. Congressmen are studying a new promotion system based more on real ability, less on seniority. Underfit and over-age combat commanders are to give way to younger men.

Graduates of the new army school, which begins this month, will be selected for duty. Enrollment is based on army-wide competition.

The graph above, prepared by the bureau of agricultural economics, of the United States department of agriculture in Washington, illustrates the current farm situation in the nation today.

in storage under loan. He is therefore holding a good-sized equity in his last year's production which he can sell at better prices due to war conditions as well as the guarantee of parity prices. The farmer's last year's production is like money in the bank.

Labor Cost Is Up.

Increased taxes and higher costs for farm labor and for many of the products the farmer buys will syphon part of the income gain. The price the farmer pays for fertilizer, however, promises to be relatively lower than for numerous other products. Teamwork between science and industry has combined to cut the cost of soil improvement. A. L. Mehring of the U. S. department of agriculture recently pointed out that American farmers now save $200,000,000 a year due to reductions in the cost of fertilizer resulting from scientific research.

One of the almost inevitable results of increased farm income will be a rise in the value of farm land. The history of all past eras has shown that whenever farm products have risen in price for a considerable period, land has likewise risen in value. The rising trend may tempt many farmers to overexpansion. As a matter of fact the improved outlook for agriculture has already caused many farm folks to consider buying an extra farm.

If farmers will remember the aftermath of World War No. 1's farm expansion a good many future headaches can be avoided. During that first World War American agriculture was pushed to the limit. "Food Will Win the War" was the slogan. Under high pressure millions of new acres came under cultivation. Prices pyramided. But after the Treaty of Versailles, agriculture fell into difficulties. And many farmers to this day feel the hangover twinges of that speculative spree.

Improve Soil Program.

What is the alternative to the urge for more land today?

It lies in diverting any extra money that comes in from the farm parity law into lines that will bring more permanent security at less risk in the long run. For instance, paying off indebtedness, repairing old and putting up needed new farm buildings, improving livestock and increasing the fertility of the soil on the present farm.

This last is especially important, for on the productivity of the soil depends the farmer's ability to produce abundant crops for defense needs and to take advantage of the added income the parity law provides. And as a matter of fact, farmers can actually "enlarge" their farms without incurring the hazards of overexpansion.

"The secret lies in making the present farm acreage do a better production job," said a recent statement of the Middle West Soil Improvement Committee. "This means following a soil management program that will raise the land's total fertility level."

"Even in the most productive areas the average farm can usually be enlarged, so to speak, the equivalent of 10 per cent and sometimes as much as 50 per cent through intelligent soil treatment."

"In combination with other sound farming practices the use of fertilizer containing nitrogen, phosphorus and potash is essential in stepping up the soil's productive capacity. Such a practice not only has an immediate effect in increasing the per acre yield of crops needed in the nation's defense effort, but represents an important long range soil building program. It likewise means lower production costs and improved crop quality."

The soundness of this principle may be appreciated by a brief but detailed study of the performance of farm land prices from the pre-1914 days through the World war expansion and down to the depression.

Farm Values Rise and Fall.

In a group of middle western states the price of farm products more than doubled from 1910 to 1920. During this period land values also rose to record levels. After 1920 the reverse was true. But 1940 prices of farm products were only about one-half as high as in 1920 and land values were likewise cut in half.

Walter H. Ebling, a farm economist studying land values, discovered that a piece of typical farm land that was worth $100 an acre in the first "parity" days preceding the World War had reached a selling price of $171 an acre in 1920 — an increase of 71 per cent. By 1930 it was worth only $117, or a drop of $54 from 1920. Then during the low ebb years of the depression, the value of this same piece of land receded to $80.

With some improvement in the prices of farm products after 1933, the value of farm land rose slightly. By 1937 the piece of land Ebling studied would have been worth $89 — or $9 more than during the lowest years of the depression but still $11 less than its value before the World War. When the recession of 1937-38 carried the price of farm products down, farm lands again slipped in value. So by 1940 the piece of land would have been worth only $84, or $5 per acre less than in 1937 and $16 less than it was in the pre-World War period.

U. S. Civilian Blood Donors Asked by Army

NEW YORK CITY. — Civilians on the home front can fill a new and important role in the national defense program by donating blood for transfusions to produce 200,000 half-pint units of dried blood plasma required by the army and navy during the fiscal year beginning this month, the war department announced recently.

The aim of the blood plasma program, which is already under way on a small scale, is to build up a reserve not only to meet military emergencies but to succor the wounded in civilian catastrophes as well.

This is a defense enterprise involving the co-operation of five components of the national structure: Pre-eminent is the public, which will be asked to donate the blood. The American Red Cross and the division of medical sciences of the National Research Council share the responsibility of directing the program, while the Red Cross also enrolls the volunteer donors and provides the personnel and equipment to collect the blood.

Commercial concerns in various parts of the country will process the blood. The army and navy will maintain the plasma reserve for general and war use, with the army acting as purchasing agent to deal with the commercial concerns. A "pilot" project to procure 15,000 units is already under way. Donors are supplying blood through their local Red Cross chapters as fast as it can be processed.

Physicians Volunteer.

Plans for the larger objective of 200,000 units are still in their early stages. However, the American Red Cross and the division of medical sciences of the National Research Council have already enlisted the co-operation of leading physicians and surgeons in a dozen cities. These physicians, in co-operation with local Red Cross chapters, have promised to supervise the proper technique of drawing the blood from the volunteer donors.

The army and navy have each estimated their needs at 100,000 units.

The aim of the Red Cross and the National Research Council is to invite several drug and chemical concerns in various parts of the country to make bids for the processing work. In this way a strategic dispersion of the knowledge of preparing human blood in dry form will be accomplished and the chances of improving the technique are increased.

The medical departments of most armies of the world have recognized the value of dried blood plasma for transfusions and are building up a supply.

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

CARTER FIELD

Many U. S. pilots have important roles near battlefronts in China, Egypt and Syria . . . SEC to keep 'hands off' extended public utilities.

WASHINGTON. — It is not being shouted from the housetops, but a good many of our army aviators are already in the "shooting" war. There are the pilots recently sent as "observers" to China, and a much larger number "observing" in Britain. It may be denied that they functioned as did the newspaper man who got in so bad in the first World War by shooting a gun from a German trench, but if anyone thinks they are not doing a bit of shooting as well as piloting that person could be classed as gullible.

One of the things now being urged inside the administration is that we provide a "larger" number of military pilots to fly planes across Africa. Note that word "larger." It is the word used by officials in explaining what they want done. In other words, some military pilots of the U. S. forces are already in this work.

The planes are destined for Egypt and Syria—primarily for the defense of the Suez canal. It takes so long to take them across the Pacific and Indian oceans, and up into the Red sea, that the shorter route across the Atlantic to Africa is being used. That involves a long flight from just under the western hump of Africa northeasterly to Cairo.

Actually the planes fly almost straight east to the line so long maintained by the Cape to Cairo airline, and then follow the established airline up to Cairo. This route enables them to take advantage of the existing fueling and other facilities established by this commercial line long before the war started.

What is suspected is that a good many of our aviators who start in to do this trans-African ferrying job will wind up shooting at Nazi planes.

BRITISH POSITION SERIOUS

It is frankly admitted that the British situation in Egypt is very serious, even with the Russians fighting the Nazis. But before Hitler decided to attack the Reds the British position near the Suez was almost desperate.

President Roosevelt was desperately anxious to do everything possible to prevent the Germans taking Egypt. There was no way of stepping up delivery of planes to the British by the Pacific-Indian ocean and Red sea route, so this plan of ferrying them across Africa was set in motion. The use of military pilots was the next step.

All of the sentiment in administration circles in Washington is to speed up help rather than slow down as a result of the war in Russia. Conviction here is that the present situation offers an opportunity which may not come again for years, and successfully taking advantage of it may spell the difference between a two or three-year war and a nine or ten-year war.

There is no longer any hope of starving the Germans out. As a matter of fact there never was much basis for any such hope. The Germans were not starved out in the last war. Confidential investigators for Herbert Hoover reported that just before the end of the last war, in 1918, the Germans had enough food, and were not facing any famine. Their diet was not what the average German wanted, of course. It was a hardship, in that sense, but there was no danger of anyone starving, much less the army and navy.

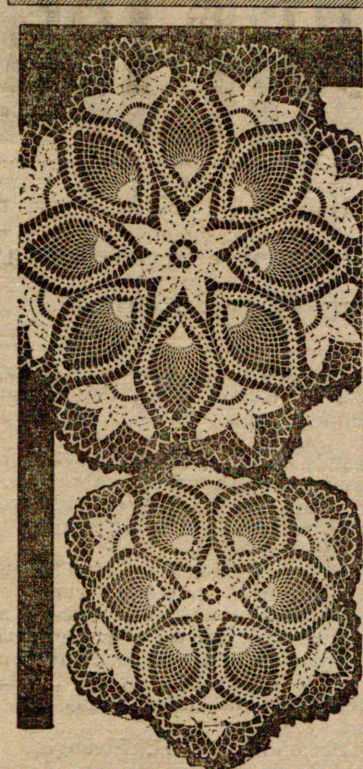

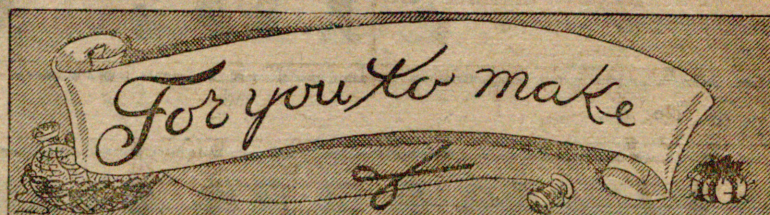

What beat the Germans in the last war was the failure of the kaiser's promise to the German people that he would win the war before American troops could get to Europe. When the Germans found out American troops were fighting in the front lines they knew that promise was pie crust.

Power Shortage Brings New Policy

In many of the cases where, to relieve the electric power shortage in certain communities, connecting links with nearby systems are being and will be ordered, the government is promising that there will be no advantage taken of the privately owned utilities in question as a result.

This means that in some of the cases a specific assurance is given companies now operating exclusively within the boundaries of one state that the new connecting link will not be seized upon by the Securities and Exchange commission and the Federal Power commission to bring that company within their jurisdiction.

Up to the time of the SEC and the death sentence public utility holding company act there had been a general movement on the part of the power companies to tie in with each other, so that in the case of sudden failure in one spot, or sudden and unexpected demand in another, there would be an adequate supply of power.

CHAPTER I

With a grinding of brakes the Imperial Express came to a stop at Nottaway, a huddle of log buildings and frame shacks buried in the eternal spruce traversed by the Canadian National. Beyond the clearing a steel bridge spanned the upper Nottaway River which flows north to James Bay. The attention of the idlers at the shack of a station was suddenly focused on a russet-haired giant carrying a cased gun, duffel bag and a surveyor's transit, who blocked the platform door of a sleeper. He swung to the ground followed by a wide-shouldered young man with penetrating agate-gray eyes. From the Scotch station agent, who nodded, to two half-breeds who whispered, heads together, as they watched the travelers, the gray eyes missed nothing. The strangers left their dunnage and started for the head of the train. Reaching the staring half-breeds, the larger man stopped.

"Bo-jo! What's the secret, Mac?" he threw at the surprised pair.

Blood leaped to their sullen faces as one said: "Nobody spik to you!"

"But you strain your eyes looking, don't you? You're figuring what my name and age is and where I'm from? Well, I always aim to please. I'm four years old; my name's Marie and I've forgotten where I'm from! That help any?"

The listening group of loungers waited with caught breaths as the scarred face of the taller breed filled with blood. His yellow eyes blazed as they measured the man who slouched, big wrists hands on hips, smiling at his discomfort. For an instant his right hand hovered over his coat pocket, then left it as his companion seized his arm.

"You look for troubl' here?" he snarled.

"Brother, I thought you were after information," drawled the amused giant. "And I was giving you some. Of course, if you can't use it—Well, a'voir, M'sieu!" With a careless wave of his hand the russet-haired young man joined his waiting companion.

"Don't start anything here, Red!" cautioned the dark man. "It's too early. We've got to look around. But you sure got the goat of that Burntwood."

"I meant to! That bird looks like a bad boy to me. He needs a spanking."

"Good job somebody did on his face with a knife!"

At the head of the train the travelers found a blocky individual sliding an eighteen-foot Peterboro canoe from a baggage car. His high cheekbones, slits of eyes and crow-black hair marked a strain of Indian blood. Watching the proceeding fretted a huge airdale.

"All right, Blaise," said the man with the gray eyes. "we'll give you a hand!"

The airdale leaped on the speaker who grasped the dog's hairy jaws. "Hello, Flame, old partner! The bush smell good after the train, boy?"

Depositing the canoe on the slant of the railroad fill, the man called Blaise said: "We got to rush dat grub off! Dis train not stop for long time!"

Shortly a heap of dunnage and provision bags lay beside the track. The square-built Blaise tossed the canoe to his shoulder and started down a path to the river.

"Well, Red," said Garrett Finlay, "my guess is that those two breeds at the station might know something we came a long way to learn."

"Before we leave this great city of six shacks and a store I'm going to make some talk with those brules."

"They're altogether too keen to know who we are and where we're going. We'll give them a chance to find out, tonight," said Finlay. "Down the line they say no one at Nottaway will talk. Before we start we'll find out why."

"Chief, we can't go back, you and Blaise and me, until we do find out. We've burned our bridges! It's sink or swim, now!"

The bronzed face of the other hardened while lights flickered in his deep-set eyes. "Right, Red! We'll get to the bottom of this if it takes all winter and God help somebody when we do!"

After supper the friends separated. Leaving Malone in conversation with Cotter, the storekeeper, Finlay went to the house of the station agent, McLeod.

"So you're going to the bay on the survey?" observed the Scotchman, glad of the chance for a gossip with someone from the "outside."

"Yes, we're meeting the main party at Rupert House."

"Wintering there, eh?"

"Oh, yes. We won't get out until next fall. By the way, what's all this mystery about, here, Mr. McLeod?" threw out Finlay.

McLeod shot a sidelong glance over the steel rims of his spectacles at his wife's troubled face before he answered: "You noticed something?"

"Noticed something? The place seems scared to breathe! When I asked Cotter who this Isadore was who has the big store-house here, he looked at me as if I was throwing a gun on him."

Again the eyes of McLeod and his wife locked. "What did Cotter tell you?"

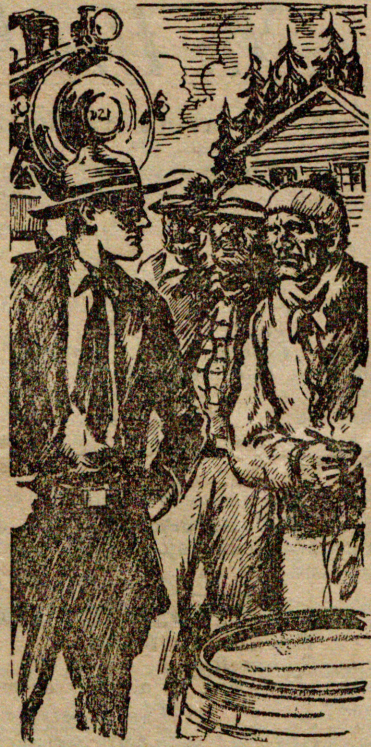

"Why, he said Isadore was a big fur man on Lake Waswanipi. He had a depot here because all his stuff went in from the railroad. But when I asked him if any prospectors were going into the Chibougamau this way he acted like a scared rabbit. I understand that three parties who tried it were reported drowned in the rapids. But what's mysterious about that?" demanded Finlay with assumed innocence.

McLeod's pale blue eyes squinted hard at his caller. "Young man, I've been on this section of steel only six months. My business is rail-roading. Your job is surveying for the government. What's going on in the bush two hundred miles north of here ain't my business. Is it yours?"

Finlay slowly smiled. "Then there is something going on in the bush north of here," said Finlay. "I've had my answer."

"Yes, you've had your answer," admitted McLeod, drily. "But, mind you, I'm deaf, blind, and dumb."

Finlay took a sheet of paper from his wallet and folded it to expose a single line of writing at its foot. He leaned and showed the folded sheet to the station agent. "I wonder if you'd recognize that handwriting, Mr. McLeod?" he asked.

"Nobody spik to you!"

While his wife peered over his shoulder, McLeod read the line aloud:

"I don't believe those six men were drowned."

The station agent nervously cleared his throat. "Never saw that handwriting before!" he replied, with a shake of the head, while Finlay caught a look of suppressed excitement in Mrs. McLeod's pink face.

"You don't think that anybody in Nottaway wrote that letter, then?"

The Scotchman's faded blue eyes snapped. "No, I don't want anything to do with it!" he spat out. "Where did you get that letter?"

"It was sent to my family at North Bay. Robert Finlay, one of those six men, was my brother."

"Tch! Tch! Too bad!" murmured Mrs. McLeod.

"So you're here to investigate?"

"No, I'm here on survey duty—bound for James Bay! Naturally, after our getting that letter I'm asking questions while I'm here." Finlay looked significantly at the McLeods. "But it looks as if no one dared answer them."

"I'm sorry," said McLeod, "but all I can tell you is that Isadore reported that the canoes of the parties had been found by Waswanipi Indians."

Finlay frowned. "Hasn't Isadore's freight already gone down river?" he suddenly demanded.

"Yes, weeks ago."

"Then the two breeds, here, who were so curious when we left the train are lookout men?"

McLeod blinked into the stare that drove into his. "Lookout men? I don't understand."

"I mean that they're checking on every canoe that leaves here for the north. What I'm asking you, Mr. McLeod, is who are they checking for and why?"

McLeod coughed, caught his wife's warning eyes, then replied: "If you think there was something suspicious about your brother's disappearance, why don't you bring in the provincial police?"

"I haven't got a thing but this letter—not a thing. But there's one question I'd like to ask you. Why does this fellow with the knife slash on his face pack a gun? What's he afraid of?"

"You're pretty shrewd, Mr. Finlay, you'll have to judge for yourself. I don't know."

After a chat about lower Ontario, the McLeods' home country, Finlay bade them good-night. As he left the house he saw the taller of the half-breeds who had watched his arrival at Nottaway with such interest. Finlay's curious eyes studied the man who was evidently waiting for him in front of the frame store, which carried on a spruce plank above the door the name "J. Cotter."

Approaching the half-breed, he called: "Fine evening!"

The other grinned, slapping vigorously at his face and neck. "Good night for bug, al-so!"

Finlay lost no time in getting to the point. "You know the river to the Bay?"

The breed nodded. "You headin' for de Bay on survey?" he asked.

"Yes, we're heading for Rupert. The river runs pretty hard for a hundred miles below here, I hear."

"Plenty strong water on all dese riviere! Two men drown last year!"

Finlay closely watched the flickering eyes as he said: "And four the year before, but that was on the Waswanipi, they tell me!"

"Ah-hah!"

"I see that the Hudson's Bay and Jules Isadore have depots here," observed Finlay, nodding at the storehouses beside the track. "Who is this Isadore?"

The half-breed gaped in surprise. "You nevare hear of heem?"

"No."

"Wal, you not see hees place on Nottaway Trail."

"He does a big fur business, I judge, by the size of his depot."

"Ver' beeg business," he agreed.

"Ver' beeg! McLeod, he talk wid you 'bout Isadore?"

Finlay laughed inwardly. "No, he says he's new here, doesn't know Isadore."

"Ah!"

As yet the man who had evidenced such curiosity concerning the survey party had not shown his hand. Then Finlay abruptly brought the matter to a head. "You work for Isadore?"

"Yes."

"My name is Finlay. What's yours?"

"Louis Batoche."

"You handle his freight?"

"Yes. Now M'sieu' Finlay," returned the other with a grimace, "I ask you question. W'y you go by dis way to Rupert and not by easy trail to Moose?"

Finlay laughed. So that was the nigger in the woodpile? They wanted to know why the survey party was taking the Nottaway Trail to the Bay. He answered disarmingly: "Oh, we're going to make a new survey of the Nottaway from Lake Matagami to Rupert Bay. Otherwise we'd have gone by Moose."

Garry narrowly watched the effect of his explanation. The half-breed lifted his brows in seeming surprise as he replied: "Ah-hah! I see!"

The answer appeared to satisfy Batoche's curiosity. His eyes dropped to the river shore where the smoke from Blaise's smudge fire hung in the spruce tops. Then his gaze shifted to a tent above the bridge.

"Who are those men camped there, prospectors?" asked Finlay.

Batoche laughed. "Dey head for de Rouyn contree."

"Not interested in trying for the Chibougamau?" Finlay watched the other closely.

Batoche's eyes glittered. "Chibougamau?" he sneered. "Onlee fool head for de Chibougamau from here!"

"And they paid for it by drowning in the Waswanipi rapids—all of them."

Batoche's pale eyes probed the inscrutable face of the white man, then shifted to the spruce ridge, beyond the river.

"Onlee Montagnais Indian travel dat Waswanipi. It ees bad water. De prospector all go in from Lac St. Jean."

"I hear that Isadore's people found a piece of a canoe."

"For sure! All smash up below beeg rapide on Waswanipi!"

"Which party was that?"

"Two young fallar who go in last year wid Peterboro cano."

Finlay's eyes clung for an instant to the purple ridge as pain lanced through him. "That's all they found—no bodies or outfit?"

Batoche shook his head. "Dat's all!"

"Well, I'm much obliged," said Finlay. "I've got to see my man, Brassard. We'll be pushing off in the morning."

"Bo-jo!" replied Batoche as Finlay left him and started for the camp on the river shore.

In the meantime, down on the river shore, Blaise Brassard had been smoking in the lee of a smudge fire before a small A tent with a cheesecloth mosquito drop. Near him lay the big airdale.

"Flame," said the ruminating Brassard, exhaling a cloud of pipe smoke, "you and Blaise got big job dis summer. W'at you tink?"

The dog raised his head. His three-cornered eyes gazed fixedly through shaggy brows as if he understood and agreed. Then he suddenly stiffened, ears cocked, rose to his feet and stood with head thrust forward peering into the scrub.

"Ah-hah! Somebody comin'!"

The hair on Flame's neck and back lifted as his throat swelled in a menacing rumble.

Old Indian Chief Is Irked by His 'Wild' Young Men

Chee Dodge of the Navajos Blames Program of Education.

PHOENIX, ARIZ.—Chee Dodge, big chief of the Navajos for more than half a century, thinks the government's education program is making the young Indians "wild."

And Chee Dodge should know, for he was No. 1 Navajo on the 16,000,000-acre reservation in northern Arizona from 1884 until 1938.

The young Indians used to be quiet and obedient, but now—well, Chee Dodge borrows the white man's phrase and says they're "going to the dogs."

"The Indian boys used to be tame," he said. "Now they go to school. When they come back they are wild. It looks to me like the government's going to brand them one of these days."

Bows to Progress.

Chee Dodge was named the big man on the reservation in 1884 and held the post until "these young educated fellers came along to tear up the country."

He insists that he's neither Democrat nor Republican, but he just can't understand this business of "scientific soil conservation."

Last summer, Chee Dodge pointed out, the government had the Navajos round up many of their horses and sell them to preserve rangelands.

"They sell all the horses," Chee said. "And pretty soon they sell all the cattle and sheep."

"I would like to know how the Indians make a living."

He hastens to add that he hasn't anything against these new things taught in the schools. He doesn't know much about education because they didn't have schools when he was young.

Irked by Impetuosity.

The biggest complaint against the "young fellers" is that they "think they can change everything overnight."

"Maybe it's O.K.," he concedes. "We wait and see someday, maybe."

One of the things Chee Dodge likes to talk about is the time he saw Kit Carson, the famous Indian scout. That was when Chee Dodge was four years old and Carson and other scouts were rounding up the Navajos and taking them to Fort Sumner in New Mexico.

"I was a young kid then," he said. "They got the young fellers and the old men and women and crippled folks up there. But all the big chiefs were hiding in the Grand canyon."

Chee Dodge has visited Phoenix twice. He likes the state capital because it's nice and warm in winter and because he gets to stay out pretty late with his friends, taking in the bright night spots.

Regularly, he adds hastily, his bedtime is nine o'clock.

Bluejay Conquers Street; Town Appeals for Help

WESTWOOD, N. J.—The Westwood police requested the Bergen County Humane society to deal with a contumacious bluejay which has set up housekeeping in a tree on Center avenue and is trying to monopolize the thoroughfare.

Mrs. K. K. Latcher, whose home at 451 Center avenue is near that of the bluejay, complained to the police about the bird. It attacked everybody who passed, she said, flying at their faces with beating wings and driving beak. Children fled panic-stricken before the bird, she said, and the savage creature attacked adults also.

Charles Kemmlein of Center avenue, one of the adult victims, suffered a laceration of the scalp.

Ohioan's New Car Must Be Stored for Whole Year

TOLEDO.—Lester E. Shue, 19, of Perrysburg, bought a new automobile in the morning, obtained his driver's license in the afternoon and came here at night to practice driving.

A few minutes after he arrived in Toledo, a scout crew noticed his auto weaving and he was arrested on a charge of drunken driving.

Next day he pleaded guilty to a charge of driving while under the influence of liquor before Judge Frank E. O'Connell. The youth was sentenced to the workhouse for 15 days, fined the costs and his driver's license was suspended for a year. He said he would place his new auto in storage.

Snake in Box Worries

Checkroom Attendant

LITTLE ROCK, ARK.—The checkroom attendant at the Soldiers Service Center here heard a harmless-looking box that had been checked with him emitting peculiar noises. Upon investigation he found a note on the lid. It read:

"Beware—a snake inside. I will be back tomorrow to get it. Treat it nice and it won't bite you and even if it does, it won't hurt."

The attendant opened the box and there was a snake and a piece of bologna.

The snake was kept for the owner, but it was a skittish night for the checkroom operator.

IT HELPS SOME

("The Aga Khan has been compelled to cut his racing stable down to one horse.")—News item)

If you've been hard hit by the war—
If you have felt its frightful touch—
If you are getting more and more
To feel your lot is not so much;
If you're enveloped in the blues—
If daily by some blow you're hit,
Here is some rather soothing news—
The Aga Khan is feeling it!

II

If you are prone to knit your brows
And worry over what's ahead—
If you've a tendency to grouse
About the way that you've been bled;

If you're complaining of the mess—
If every broadcast makes you blue,
This thought will help a bit, I guess—
The Aga Khan is scrimping, too!

III

If Europe's war has burdened you
And made you go a little slow
In making any outlays new
Or being careless with your dough;
If you have felt war's bitter sting
And think that you've been put upon,

This item may be comforting—
All's not so well with Aga Khan.

IV

If your life isn't what it was—
If you must count your shekels
now—
If day by day the conflict does
Its best to sink you by the bow;
If you are cutting down on gas
To make each dime the limit go,
This ought to help you let it pass—
The Aga Khan is low on dough.

V

If you can't live the way you did
And must add water to the soup;
If it's been months since you were rid
Of all the cares that 'round you
swoop;

If you must now economize—
If you've cut out the fresh meat course,
This fact may help your spirits rise—
The Aga Khan's on his last horse!

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL Lesson

By HAROLD L. LUNDQUIST, D. D.
Dean of The Moody Bible Institute of Chicago.
(Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

Lesson for July 27

Lesson subjects and Scripture texts selected and copyrighted by International Council of Religious Education; used by permission.

THE HOLY SPIRIT INSPIRES NEW TESTAMENT LETTERS

LESSON TEXT—Galatians 1:11, 12; I Thessalonians 2:13; II Timothy 3:14-17; I Peter 3:14-16; Jude 3.

GOLDEN TEXT—All scripture is given by inspiration of God, and is profitable for doctrine, for reproof, for correction, for instruction in righteousness.—II Timothy 3:16.

Letters are usually interesting, frequently very important, and always revealing as to the character and interests of the writer. That is generally true of ordinary daily mail, but how very true it is of the letters of Scripture, the epistles of Peter, Paul, Jude, and John. For in them "holy men of God spake as they were moved by the Holy Ghost" (II Pet. 1:21).

I. The Gospel (Gal. 1:11, 12; I Thess. 2:13).

The good news (for that is the meaning of "gospel") of salvation by grace through faith in Jesus Christ as Saviour has from the very beginning of its proclamation been subject to attack. Men are not content to receive God's way of salvation, but want to add something to it, adjust its requirements to meet new situations, to tinker and twist.

1. A Divine Revelation (Gal. 1:11, 12).

Paul was not presenting something which he or some other man had "worked up," but a message that he had "prayed down." Paul was only delivering that which he had received from God (see I Cor. 15:1-4). He was careful that it should not be confused with or by the teachings of men, so he "conferred not with flesh and blood" (see Gal. 1:15, 16).

We too are privileged to proclaim a divine revelation which has come to us in the inspired Word of God. How delightfully sweet and tremendously powerful is the message which we may thus bring forth. It has no human frailty and weakness, no human error, and no misleading philosophies. It does not need to be revised every year or two. It is God's eternal message of redemption.

BLAIR AND COMPANY

Lumber, Building Material. Everything For Building Coal and Stoker Coal. Coke, Wood. It costs less to heat with coal. 18206 Harwood St., Homewood. Phone Homewood 12.

Under the direction of experienced men in Homewood is a lumber concern with an enviable record of years in business in this line and is a concern which has built a reputation as one of the leaders in this part of the country in quality, prices and service is under the personal supervision of lumbermen of wide experience.

On account of tremendous buying power this local concern is able to enter the country's largest market and secure quantities at prices so low that they offer the local public astounding values in lumber and building supplies of every description.

We will not attempt to detail the very large stock that they carry. Suffice to say that this establishment compares favorably with the best and most up-to-date establishments of much larger cities in point of extent of stock, quality of work and material and the general excellence of everything in the field of the lumber and supply business.

The contractors and builders, the farmers and the people generally have come to know that they can depend on Blair & Co., for just about everything that there is in the lumber and building material business.

They have a corps of skilled drafts men who will design your home to your ideas and will assist you in securing an F. H. A. loan when required.

It may be truly said that Blair & Company is a valued asset to the community and in this edition, which calls to mind our onward progress we wish to direct your special attention to the commendable activities as one of the distinct features of our business and industrial efficiency.

HOMEWOOD THEATER

18110 DIXIE HIGHWAY

PHONE 300

MR. J. B. SMELKER, MANAGER.

This well known theatre has taken its place in the social and educational world of this part of the State and has become an institution in the life of the people that has been beneficial to the young, old and middle aged.

This popular theatre is appointed most excellently, the ventilation and cooling arrangements are the best that can be secured and all sanitary precautions are taken for the health of the people. Here amidst comfortable surroundings are entertained with music that entrances, drives dull care away.

The plays are clean and they themselves are selected with great care so that the ladies and children of the surrounding territory know this place as their moving picture home. A quiet air of refinement pervades the audience and this accounts for the large patronage from all classes of people. This modern policy of the management has brought autoists and people from all the surrounding towns and the cities to recognize this theatre as their favorite amusement center.

In making this review of the social life of this part of the state we are glad to compliment the management upon the position it occupies in the life of the people. It has been aptly said that it is truly the House of Quality.

BOUK'S TOURIST CABINS

17249 HALSTED STREET

Mr. and Mrs. Aden Bouk, Proprietors

From all over the countryside in towns and on farms folks find it convenient and very comfortable to stay over night at this well managed tourist camp.

In the conversation of travelers this tourist camp stands out as the one from which the best of modern service can be received. By this means certain tourist camps are made famous.

Certainly Bouk's Tourist Cabins

in Homewood ranks as one of those to which all people can turn when they are away from home. Nothing that could contribute in the smallest way to happiness and convenience of the Traveling Public is omitted. In every respect the aim of this hotel is to give you a service that is more than satisfactory and to make you feel thoroughly comfortable and at home.

FORD DEALERS SINCE 1923 WELDING BODY REPAIRING

MARTIN L. HUPE SERVICE MGR.

When one thinks of the popular Ford and Mercury cars he immediately associates this automobile with the progressive concern of Ford & Mercury Sales & Service of Homewood, Dealer in whose territory they are very popular.

Since opening this agency, Mr. M. J. Van Drunen, owner and manager of the business, has made many friends thruout this section and his business enjoys a large and regular patronage from Cook Co.

The agency in Homewood is one of the largest in this section and aside from its new and used car department has a service department second to none in Illinois in which only mechanics of long experience are employed. While selling Fords and specializing in the upkeep of Ford and Mercury cars, the service department is equipped to make repairs and replacements on all models of Ford cars.

That the residents of this section are pleased with the type of service rendered by Mr. M. J. Van Drunen is evidenced by the fact that the organization's sales have shown a steady increase each year. In this review of 1931 we recommend the Ford Sales & Service and Mr. M. J. Van Drunen to all our readers.

HOMEWOOD ROYAL BLUE GROCERY & MEAT MARKET

2057 Ridge Road

MR. E. GITERSOUE, PROP. HOMEWOOD

PHONE 575

One of Homewood's leading stores feature a complete line of meats and groceries and fresh fruits, vegetables in season.

They employ a force of clerks, each one of whom is a genius in doing and saying the accommodating thing to their customer. It is the rule and principle of their business to do more for their customers than simply sell them groceries and their customers appreciate this almost as much as they do the high quality of groceries and meat offered from day to day.

The Homewood Royal Blue Grocery and Meat Market give special inducements to out-of-town customers and they handle a full and complete line of staple and fancy groceries of standard brands and are always first with fresh fruits in season and country produce. Their stocks of canned goods are always of the best brand and are always kept fresh.

Being large dealers they purchase in such large quantities that they are able to undersell many similar concerns, and their customers reap the benefit of their increased buying power.

Mr. E. GiterSoue is popular and has won the admiration and friendship of the entire community and in this review we feel justified to say that this is one of the most progressive concerns of its kind in this territory, and we are not alone in this assertion, for many customers who have patronized them have nothing but compliments and praise for them.

FUNERAL DIRECTORS, AMBULANCE SERVICE

A Dignified Service for our Readers

The Thomas J. Kellar Funeral Home represents the well respected trade of this community.

They have shown the true spirit of their service to the entire community by rendering a distinctive service on many occasions when tact and thoughtfulness alone can meet the requirements. They maintain a complete funeral service. Through this service they have gained many friends over the country.

The modern funeral home they furnish is very complete and is always at the disposal of those who want to take advantage of it. The funeral home has taken its place in our modern life, for in all the metropolitan centers people from all walks of life are taking advantage of its conveniences.

They have access to the best stock in the line of their service and this is furnished at reasonable prices. They are prepared to arrange all details. When you turn a service over to them they relieve you of every responsibility so that there is no more worry about plans.

In making this business review we deem it appropriate to voice our appreciation of this firm and to express our assurance of their permanent position in the community life.

MR. FRED H. GOLD, PROP.

of The Homewood Coal, Ice, Material Co., Has This to Say about Coal:

Stocks of coal at the mines today are low, and in view of rearmament program, it is apparent that the mines will have little opportunity to build up any stock for next winter's supply.

To prevent a coal shortage this fall and winter it is essential that retail dealers build up their coal stocks starting at once and encourage their customers to take next winter's coal, commencing immediately. Unless this is done, production during the summer will be restricted to such an extent that it will not be possible to keep up with the full demand.

Another factor with vital bearing on the situation is transportation. To handle the required production all railroads must be given an opportunity to make full use of their coal carrying equipment beginning now. The mines and the railroads give us assurance that our requirements may be met if production can be kept moving steadily. If users and dealers wait until late summer or fall to take their coal, there will be such a congestion of orders that shipments may not be possible at all.

As a matter of self interest as well as for the country's general welfare, full cooperation is needed. We therefore urge you to order your coal now.

PHONE 1

The Clothier Grocery and Meat Market is recognized as the shopping headquarters for a large number of people in this community as their unusually well assorted stock is attractive to buyers for many miles around.

This is an independent store and it offers many advantages not to be found in chain stores. This store is equipped with efficient refrigeration for the proper preservation of perishable foods, and strict sanitation is observed in all departments. Mr. Clothier refuses to sell any food products that he would not serve on his own table.

He believes that business goes where it is invited and stays where it is well treated and this is the reason for the continued increase of his business.

We are glad to record the part this store has had in the commercial development of this territory and predict continued prosperity for this justly popular shopping center. For increased satisfaction during 1941 patronize the Clothiers' Grocery and Market in Homewood, Phone 1.

This floral establishment has thru its experience in serving the public gained a most enviable reputation for promptness and good taste as well as reasonable prices. Having made famous the slogan, "Say It With Flowers". The individual who stands behind this floral company and its policies belongs to the most substantial element of the city's commercial life and activities and is to be highly commended for the development of a business to such a point of perfection. He should be congratulated upon this great success in supplying the finest flowers at all seasons of the year.

It may be truly said that no florist in this section can compare with him in the line of artistic floral designs as this branch is made a specialty by Mr. Thos. White. Those of our readers who desire designs for weddings or funerals, should not fail to avail themselves of the service as all work hitherto performed here has been of a truly artistic nature and stamps him as a thorough artist in his profession. We recommend Mr. Thos. White to all of our readers as a man worthy of their patronage.

They are headquarters in this section for anything in the real estate line and enjoy the patronage and confidence from all surrounding territory.

In this day and age conservative men are constantly seeking investments where they are not only assured a permanent source of income, but a reasonable certainty of increasing in value, the real estate dealer is doing more than his share to meet the demands of such men. This locality is indeed fortunate in having in its midst such a real estate firm as this well known agency.

This institution has been closely identified with the growth and expansion of the section and has made a close study of real estate conditions so that they can offer both the buying and selling public the very best service. They have properties for sale, both town and country at prices that cannot fail to be attractive to the intending purchaser and has made many important deals in this section.

This firm has made it a point not to list property for sale for more than its true value. This is where their close study of local conditions render them an authority on values. In all transactions their word is as good as their bond and people have come to look to them when seeking a desirable medium through which they may dispose of their property.

We take pleasure in this review to refer Fred H. Gold & Sons to all our readers and assure them that whenever they have property of any kind to offer they can locate the best buyer by listing their property with them. Such a firm as this aids materially in the growth and expansion of the entire community.

ST. FRANCIS HOSPITAL

12948 S. Gregory, Blue Island, Ill.

Phone Blue Island 2320

St. Francis hospital is one of the most prominent in this part of Illinois. In a review of this section there is no institution more worthy of mention than this foremost hospital.

This hospital offers the patient quiet and rest combined with every modern method of treatment and diagnosis. Laws of nature and principles of science are co-ordinated in the most effective care for patients. Their modern hospital is completely equipped for treatment of all kinds of diseases. Special developments in the laboratory and diet kitchen makes sympathetic study and rapid results in treatment possible.

This hospital contains complete operating departments, nursery and examining departments. The maternity ward is a special feature where the finest care of the mother and baby may be had.

This modern institution contains quarters for the reception of cases requiring personal care and individual study. We are glad to compliment this institution upon its surroundings and their work in the relief of suffering humanity. We judge man's love for God by the way he treats his fellowmen.

It has been built upon its present high standards by the tireless efforts of its efficient staff and the years that have been spent and the results that have been obtained deserve the praise of all.

The hospital has most efficient laboratories and is equipped to take care of out-of-town patrons in a most efficient manner.

Another feature of the St. Francis Hospital is the new X-Ray department, operated and supervised by a specialist who can interpret the negatives with unusual skill.

The St. Francis hospital is a credit to this section of the state and deserves the support and backing of every citizen.

Nature will cool your house at night...
if you give it a chance!

A complete change of air
— in 3 minutes or less!

At sundown, open the downstairs windows and turn on the attic fan.

As the powerful fan pulls in cool night air, stale hot air is expelled.

In 3 minutes or less, the air in every room has been completely changed.

Let the coolness in with a —

NIGHT AIR COOLING SYSTEM

Provides an entire night of restful sleep for less than the cost of an ice cream cone.

Odd, isn't it, that during the summer we spend many a hot, sleepless night in houses that are entirely surrounded by cool night air!

But now, hundreds of families have found how to move that cool air indoors. It's done with a Night Air Cooling System. This is a wonderfully efficient method of driving out hot, stale air and replacing it with fresh night air, by using special fans that displace 10 times as much air as ordinary fans. Families who use this system marvel at how simple it is and how quietly it runs.

And they find it costs only a few cents a day to operate.

Fans can be had in Portable Models, ready for instant use in any room or in the attic, or in Built-in Attic Models, which can be permanently installed in a few hours.

...and Electricity is Cheap!

Mrs. Lillian McCleary announces the approaching marriage of her daughter Dorothy Alice to Carl G. Van Horn, son of Mr. and Mrs. Merton G. Van Horn of Plainfield. The wedding will take place Saturday afternoon, August 16th at four o'clock in the Methodist Church in New Lenox with Rev. Benjamin Aman officiating. Mrs. Robert McCleary, sister-in-law of the bride to be will be the matron of honor, while Andrew Van Horn of Plainfield will act as best man for his brother. Mrs. John Hawk of Joliet will play musical selections on the harp before and during the ceremony. Several parties are being planned for the bride-to-be and will be announced later. No invitations are being issued but all friends and relatives are invited to attend.

Several members of St. Jude's CYO and their friends enjoyed an all day outing at Starved Rock State Park last Sunday. A city bus was chartered with Robert Reiter in charge. At noon a picnic dinner was served and in the afternoon they enjoyed the ferry ride and hikes thru the park and canyons. Those who took the trip were: Robert, Theresa, and Philip Brock, Francis O'Malley, Shirley Quinn, Robert, George, Melvin Reiter, Gertrude Wysock, Rita Sullivan, Evelyn Gabel, Robert Woods, Erma Schneider, Maurice Barry, Marguerite Barry, Jimmy Brooks, Jimmy Hayes, Margaret Formento, Joe Formento, Bernadine Smego, and Dorothy Smego, Leo, Eileen, Virginia, and Rosemary Shields, Rita Fay, and the chaperones who were, Mr. and Mrs. John Smego, Jr., and Mrs. Edward Berens.

Miss Dorothy McCleary entertained the Bachelor Girls Club in her home Tuesday night.

The Ladies Aid of the Trinity Evangelical Lutheran church will meet July 29th in the home of Mrs. Leo White.

RIDGE DEPARTMENT STORE

2023 Ridge Road, Homewood, Ill., Emil Hermanek, Proprietor. Formerly The Mathas Store

The enlarged Streamlined Store featuring Van Heusen Shirts, Newport shirts and shorts, Van Heusen Ties, "Ann Foster" Dresses for Ladies.

The Ridge Department Store now owned and operated by Mr. Hermanek, believes his business should be so conducted as to reflect the time tried principles of the past, as well as to keep abreast of the newest developments in high grade merchandising in this day and age.

He believes that a way to build a business is to offer honest quality at the lowest possible price. He believes that every business should perform a real service for the community in which it operates. In a very definite sense, he is the Purchasing Agent for men, women and children who come here for their clothing and accessories.

He believes that these ideals are best achieved while treating each customer as a good neighbor.

The Ridge Department Store extends to our readers a cordial invitation to inspect this newly modernized and friendly store.

Posen Salvage House

Victor Meyer and Robert Jacobson, Proprietors. 14216 So. Western Av. Posen. Tel. Blue Island 3672

This junk dealer at 14216 So. Western Ave., will buy and market your waste materials. Give them a trial on your next load. Phone Blue Island 3672.

While they always give courteous and prompt attention to all features of their business, they specialize in the handling of carload lots of scrap iron and metals. They also buy all kinds of used machinery and render a most valuable and essential service that aids in the upbuilding of the community and in the progress and continued development of the surrounding territory.

This firm is rendering a most essential service to the country that is bringing recognition not only from people of the immediate community that count, but also throughout this section of the state. By the efficient methods upon which they operate they are able to pay the highest market price and you can convert your junk into cash by calling them. Thru the progressive efforts of this firm, much of the so-called waste material that heretofore was thrown away, is now turned into ready cash by this firm and they in turn are able to put it on the market at much less expense than the original cost of production. Rendering a valuable service to the country in the preservation of its resources.

They have made a host of friends as well as patrons thruout this section and have always been courteous and ready and willing to give the best of service and the highest prices consistent with the conditions of the market and good business.

We are pleased to compliment Victor Meyer and Robert Jacobson in this review and wish to direct your attention to their depot as one of the important business places of this section, and to its management as among our best citizens.

The Watland Bros. Camera Shop offer an excellent service in Kodaks, Cameras, Motion Picture Cameras, Projectors, Screens, Films and accessories and carry a complete and well selected stock.

Every family should have a camera of some size and take pictures of the family at different times, pictures of scenes on trips and other occurrences which aid in the placing of the family history in album form and in pictures.

They feature a large stock of all sides of Kodaks and have all the equipment for home movies, and especially feature the home moving picture projector, which gives you in the home a fine reproduction apparatus for your films. It may be fitted with attachments for the proper showing in color and gives a steady, clear reproduction which will afford constant satisfaction and delight.

The Kodak finishing department has the reputation of doing fine quality work. Drop in here with your negatives or just mail them in and you will see how rapidly they will develop them and have everything ready for you. The work is high class and very reasonable.

In this review, we are pleased to compliment The Watland Bros., Camera Shop upon the part they are playing in the life of the period and would say that every family appoint someone to make a visit to this store and get acquainted with the latest in the way of cameras.

Fred H. Gold & Sons

2337-183rd St., Homewood. Phone 500 Distributor "BUDWEISER BEER"

This popular distributor of high grade beverages is well known in our community. They are distributors for that well known Budweiser Beer which is winning favor in our community.

People are beginning to call for beer by name and the beer most frequently called is Budweiser beer, because after trying them all it has proven to be the best. Its rich mellowness and zesty flavor is the result of proper ageing and the best of brewing in preparation.

In a survey of this section, this beer was the favorite of all who have tried all brands and it is suggested to those who have not yet tried Budweiser to order this popular beer and then you will readily note its superb quality and the reason for its popularity.

This beer, made as it is, is the most refreshing and healthful beverage on the market today. It has an incomparable flavor and nothing is more restful or soothing than a bottle, ice cold. When served, that rich amber color topped by creamy foam is a real treat for the palate. For real beer enjoyment it is suggested that you order Budweiser beer.

Its rich, full-bodied flavor, made possible only because of superior preparation and proper ageing, is of popularity in this section. It is winning for this beer the greatest real palate treat and what could satisfy anyone more than an ice-cold bottle of Budweiser beer these days.

You may order Budweiser Beer at any of the merchants dispensing the beer in this section, and we may add that a case or two kept ready for those entertaining occasions will make you the most popular host and hostess in your community. It is only Budweiser that gives real satisfaction to those who have tried all beers and the reason for the recommendation of this beer.

Budweiser is fully aged from a formula and by brewers who are past masters in the art of brewing. The distributor, Fred H. Gold & Sons, is well known here, and he suggests that you order beer by name, Budweiser to assure yourself of the best.

Twietmeyer's Dairy Store

2221 RIDGE ROAD HOME WOOD PHONE 96.

MR. HENRY TWIETMEYER PROP. LUNCHES Of the Highest Quality- Ice cream and Sodas. Full line of Bakery Goods Fresh Daily. BIRDS EYE Frozen Foods

An old proverb is "A Healthy Body Breeds a Healthy Mind." The Twietmeyer Dairy Store by providing wholesome Vitamin milk and dairy products high in nutritive contents contributes probably more than any other institution in the community to the health of the baby and growing child.

Perhaps no part of agriculture has made forward strides in the past few years as dairying. When we speak of dairying today, we must first consider the fact that it is one of the greatest assets to any community—it is one of our Government's greatest sources of income—it is national in its scope, and is practically the only division of our agricultural enterprises which affords the producer—the man who milks the cows—a year 'round income.

The Twietmeyer Dairy Store was organized for the purpose of furnishing the best dairy products possible and has succeeded admirably and there is no question but that their popular products are very much superior to any obtainable on the market today.

Everything in the plant is kept scrupulously clean as it is the policy of the institution not only to produce milk and cream that will pass inspection, but to turn out products that are as near an approach to the acme of perfection as modern machinery and up-to-date methods will permit. Many mothers of so called bottle-fed babies highly praise the energizing contents of the Twietmeyer Dairy Store milk.

Milk is undoubtedly nature's safest health and happiness insurance.

"A bottle of milk is a bottle of health", is an expression of today that is quite in order. A glass of milk at ten in the morning and three in the afternoon wards off that tired feeling. Everywhere school and health authorities are insisting that milk be served to school children.

In this editorial review we take great pleasure in complimenting Mr. Twietmeyer of this dairy upon his modern business methods. The people of this community are indeed fortunate to have them here.

Order your dairy products today from the Twietmeyer Dairy Store in Homewood.

HOMWOOD BUILDING & LOAN ASS'N.

MR. A. A. SOMMERFELD, MGR. HOME WOOD PHONE 15

Located at 2034 Ridge Road, Homewood is Homewood's Only Insured Bldg. & Loan Ass'n. — Features Loans for Homes and Is An Excellent Place For Savings—An Institution That Is Under Able Management And Is Aiding In The Upbuilding Of The Community—"Safety of Your Investment Insured Up to $5,000.00 By Federal Savings And Loan Insurance Corporation.

Two of the great civilizing forces which have helped to assure the superiority of the American people are owning one's home and the habit of thrift. These two functions are both provided for by the modern savings and loan association; therein lies its uniqueness and the pre-eminent place it has taken in our society. As early as 1789 such societies existed in Great Britain; the first American one was founded at Frankford, Pa., just outside Philadelphia, in 1831. Since that time savings and loan associations have been constantly increasing in importance until today they have attained a position of prominence such as the one held locally by The Homewood Building & Loan Association.

In carrying out its two functions: The Homewood Building & Loan Association has made use of the most approved and simplest methods. They loan money on property within this area according to one of the simplest and least expensive mortgage systems known. Likewise in the savings department any one of several convenient plans may be used.

In carrying out these two functions savings and loan associations throughout the country are performing a valuable and useful service; it is far more than a mere matter of dollars and cents, it is making provision for the cornerstone of a sane national development, by providing for saving and easy home-owning.

For those who are buying or building homes or modernizing them, this savings and loan association offers by all odds the simplest and surest way of financing it without fear of failure.

They also encourage savings with regularity and it is the best system of savings as their plan encourages industry and frugality and is approved by the U. S. Government. One individual out of every eleven in the United States is a member of a savings and loan association.

Our 3 papers found The Homewood Building & Loan Association to be the type and standing outlined above. At the present time it has an enviable record and is officered by able and careful men.

MIDWEST GROCERY & MEAT MARKET

MR. S. A. TRIUMPHS, PROP. HOME WOOD PHONE 616 SELF SERVICE — COMPLETE High grade Meats- Vegetables-Fruits and Canned Goods.

This well known retail grocery and market is the one shop in this district where the housewife knows she can secure the best foods at a reasonable price. The store is modern and up-to-date in every particular, clean and sanitary thruout. The business is conducted along progressive lines and we are proud to say that it is a credit to the commercial life of this community.

Here is your local grocery and market with the interest of your home and county at heart.

To be able to and make certain of getting the best of fresh meats, groceries and allied products is a great boon to any community. This is the place where the highest quality prevails at the lowest possible cost.

The public is thus assured of a grocery and market of the very highest grade right here at home and thus it merits the consideration and liberal support of both farmers and townsmen.

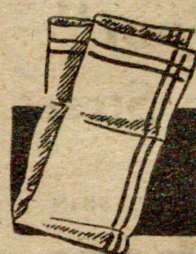

There is a great deal more to the business of conducting a first class grocery and market than the average man understands. This is an essential business that requires at its head a man of experience and who is familiar with the details and the necessity for adequate supplies. It is such houses as this one that add to the convenience of the farmer and provide good provisions.

The story of the success of Mr. S. A. Triumph is one that many folks would find profitable reading with the firm belief that success could be obtained by furnishing first class supplies upon a reasonable margin of profit. With this method in mind he began his career proceeded upon the solid foundation of good values and reasonable prices. As their trade increased and the business flourished they expanded until now it is one of the leading stores of the county.

The Midwest Grocery and Meat Market is in the hands of men thoroughly conversant with the general business conditions of the country and of wide experience in the buying world, familiar with retail trade conditions, therefore this firm has become one of the most valued of our commercial and agricultural assets.

SANDWICHES THAT REALLY TEMPT
(See Recipes Below)

BUFFET SUPPERS

If there's one season of the year when you like to feel really free from the heat of the kitchen, then summer's that season. You can do it easily, too, if you'll plan and prepare C-O-O-L meals in the early hours of the day before the heat becomes sweltering. Then stay strictly out of the kitchen until supper-time.

Make mealtime during these months as simple as possible. Not only will you be the more charming for doing less work, but your family will enjoy the simplicity as a change. One of the answers to this is buffet service. An attractively arranged table on the summer porch is a tonic for hazy summer appetites.

*Sandwich Loaf.

For Chicken Filling use:
1 cup ground, cooked chicken
½ cup ground almonds
2 to 4 tablespoons chopped celery
Salt to taste
Lemon juice to flavor
Salad dressing to moisten
Mix chicken, celery and almonds. Season with salt and lemon juice and add enough dressing to give spreading consistency.

For Egg Filling use:
4 hard cooked eggs
½ cup chopped cooked bacon or
½ cup stuffed olives, chopped
Salt to season
Few drops Worcestershire sauce
Salad dressing or cream to moisten.
Chop eggs, add bacon and Worcestershire sauce. Moisten with salad dressing to give spreading consistency.

Remove the crusts from an uncut loaf of day-old white sandwich bread. Slice lengthwise to make three or four slices about ¾ inch thick. It's a good idea to have the bottom slice thicker than the other three since it helps in placing the loaf when served. Spread slices, except top and bottom, with creamed butter, mayonnaise, then with different fillings. Use chicken filling between two slices; egg filling for the next and chopped vegetables moistened with mayonnaise for the third or tomato slices.

Stack and cover top and sides with soft cream cheese piled like frosting. Garnish with thin radish slices and dust with chopped chives. Chill in the refrigerator several hours before serving. It's better not to use lettuce because it offers slicing difficulties after the loaf is served.

For the cream cheese frosting use ¼ to ½ pound of cream cheese. Add rich milk or cream to make a thick paste. Beat cheese and cream until evenly mixed and of good consistency for spreading. Spread over loaf to give a fluffy effect, as though you were swirling icing.

*Tomato-Cheese Salad.

(Serves 8-10)
1 can (10½ ounces) condensed tomato soup
1 tablespoon butter
1 tablespoon grated onion
1½ tablespoons gelatin
¼ cup cold water
6 to 8 ounces cottage cheese
½ cup mayonnaise
Salt to taste
1 cup chopped cucumber
1 cup chopped celery
½ cup sliced radishes
½ cup finely chopped onion

LYNN SAYS:

When you think the thermometer's going to burst, then think cool, eat cool, act cool, and you'll be cool. Drink plenty of water and cooling beverages.

Be gay and have your meals casually out on the shady porch on a bright table cloth. Serve things buffet style for it'll make it easier all the way around: less table setting, less dishes, and less to do.

No one may feel much like eating, and people, generally eatless during summer months, but they must still have the proper diet. So bring out your crisp garden salads, chilled main dishes, and assorted fruits. Be Cool!

THIS WEEK'S MENU

*Sandwich Loaf
*Tomato-Cheese Salad
*Honey and Nut Bran Muffins
*Spiced Rhubarb Jam
Cool Beverage
Chilled Assorted Fruit Plate
*Recipe given.

Lettuce

Tart french dressing
Heat the tomato soup, butter and grated onion. Soften gelatin in cold water and add it to the hot tomato mixture. Add the cottage cheese and mayonnaise, stir the mixture thoroughly and salt it to taste. Let the mixture cool until it thickens slightly, then add the chopped vegetables. Pour into a large ring mold or individual molds and chill until firm. When ready to serve unmold on crisp lettuce. Use a tart french dressing with this salad.

A one-dish summer meal that will help you be a cool and collected homemaker is this tasty ham mousse which may be served as a salad main dish, heaped high with garden greens, tomato aspic cubes, devilled eggs, carrot strips, peas marinated in french dressing, ripe olives, celery hearts.

Ham Mousse Salad Plate.

(Serves 6-8)
1 tablespoon of plain gelatin
¼ cup cold water
2 cups stock or bouillon
½ cup mayonnaise
½ cup diced celery
¼ cup diced dill pickle
¼ cup minced pimiento
1 cup chopped, cooked, smoked ham

Soak gelatin in cold water for 5 minutes. Heat stock or bouillon to boiling point and add gelatin which is soaked. Stir until dissolved. Chill until slightly thickened, then whip in the mayonnaise. Add remaining ingredients, pour into ring mold and chill until firm. Unmold on salad plate and garnish with accompaniments suggested above.

Muffins that will bake in a few minutes will give your meal a tang and zest that will bring cheers from the family. These are so good you'll want them often for any meal of the day. If made in the smaller muffin tins, they'll make a grand addition when you have the ladies in for luncheon.

*Honey and Nut Bran Muffins.

(Makes 16 large muffins)
½ cup honey
1 cup flour
¼ to ½ teaspoon soda
½ teaspoon salt
2 cups bran cereal
1 tablespoon melted butter
1½ cups milk
¾ cup walnuts, chopped fine

Sift together flour, soda, salt, and mix with bran cereal. Add other ingredients. Place in greased gem pans and bake in a quick oven (425 degrees) for 25-30 minutes.

A jam spicy and delicious to go with your muffins is this one which needs only a few minutes' cooking and is therefore guaranteed not to make your kitchen unbearably hot.

*Spiced Rhubarb Jam With Orange.

(Makes 7 6-ounce glasses)
¾ cups prepared fruit
4 cups sugar
1 box powdered fruit pectin

To prepare fruit, trim and slice fine (do not peel) about 2 pounds of small red-stalked rhubarb. Add 1 cup of sugar, mix, let stand for 15 minutes. (This cup of sugar is added in addition to the ones specified above). Add 1 teaspoon each of cinnamon and cloves, and grated rind of 1 orange.

Measure prepared fruit into a 5- to 6-quart kettle filling up last cup or fraction of a cup with water if necessary. Place over the hottest fire, add fruit pectin, mix well, and continue stirring until mixture comes to a hard boil. To reduce foaming ¼ teaspoon butter may be added. Pour in the 4 cups of sugar, stirring, bring to a full rolling boil, and boil hard 1 minute.

Remove from fire, skim, pour quickly into glasses. Paraffin at once.

SHORT STORY

Mix-Up

By STANLEY CORDELL

(Associated Newspapers—WNU Service.)

BART frowned over the letter. "There's no sense in threatening this guy," he said despairingly, looking up at his wife. "He'd think I was bluffing."

"The money's due you, isn't it?" Louise asked.

"Due and past due! I earned it fairly and squarely by selling his property up on Maple street. Grove claims the property was sold as the result of an advertisement he placed in the paper and paid for out of his own pocket."

"What does Ashton say—the man who bought the property?"

Bart gestured impatiently. "What does Ashton care who gets the commission? I explained the situation to him and he was good enough to scratch off a note saying he bought the property as a result of my salesmanship. Then he left for Bermuda."

A faintly puzzled expression appeared on Louise's face. "But if you have the note, why in the world can't you sue Grove and collect through the courts?"

"That's the point. I can. But any suit of that nature takes time. And litigation costs money. I need that commission now, within the next two weeks."

Louise looked thoughtful. After a moment she said, "But if Grove knew you had that note, knew you could bring charges of larceny—a criminal offense—wouldn't that frighten him? Wouldn't he pay?"

"Right again! But if I write and tell him I have Ashton's statement, Grove won't believe me. He knows Ashton has gone to Bermuda. He'll think I'm only bluffing. On the other hand if I go ahead with the suit—throw him in jail, it won't pay the satisfaction in seeing him in jail—"

Grove stopped reading and looked across at his partner. But Wheeler's face was a mask of bewilderment. "What," he asked, "the devil is all that about?"

A crafty look crept into Grove's eyes. "This letter, Alf, was written by Bart Frazer to a friend. Frazer is the guy who sold the Maple street property. Get it? He's writing to some Paul asking to borrow money to get along on while he brings a criminal charge against me. Apparently he wrote to me at the same time, and inserted the letters in the wrong envelopes!"

Wheeler emitted a slow whistle. "That looks to me as if young Frazer knew whereof he spoke. He isn't working a bluff, else he would have attempted to collect the money from you first by threatening. This Paul is probably a lawyer and will give him some good advice."

Grove smiled thinly. "Alf, I must have been born under a lucky star. It's breaks like this that have helped make me what I am today. I knew Frazer had grounds for a criminal charge, but I didn't think he had brains enough to realize it. Now I'll have to pay him the two hundred, but it'll keep me out of jail." He smiled broadly. "What a break! If the sap hadn't got his letters crossed I'd probably be entertaining the sheriff in a day or two!"

The day following Bart Frazer found a letter from Leonard Grove in his mail box and with something of eager anticipation in his expression, ripped open the envelope. It contained a check for $200 and a brief note, in which Grove explained that the money was for payment of his commission in full for the sale of the Maple street property to Mr. Ashton.

At sight of the check Louise began to laugh, and Bart placed an arm about her shoulder. "Honey," he said, "you're a genius! Anyone who can pull a fast one on Leonard Grove like that deserves a medal. I wonder what the old coot would think if he knew we crossed those letters on purpose!"

Various Methods Given For Riddance of Ants

The quickest method of getting rid of the ants is to find their nest and to destroy the queen and young ants. But as the nest is usually well hidden, it is difficult to find. Follow the ant run between the food and the nest and you can sometimes discover where it is located. Often, after it is located, it cannot be destroyed because it is inaccessible. The next thing to do is to launch an offensive to kill the ants that are out running around.

There are three common species of ants that build their nests in the house. One is a small, reddish yellow variety that comes in swarms. They are so small they get into practically everything and are always on the hunt for sweets.

A very large ant, black to brown in color, also nests indoors and feeds upon sweets.

The thief ant, a yellowish specimen and smaller than the one with a reddish cast, nests in the house and they alone are interested in eating fats and grease.

The lawn and pavement ant and a species of small black ants found in sandy sections nest outside the house but may, on occasion, enter the house in search of sweets.

The location of nests outside the house is usually a simple matter. Insert carbon bisulfide, a liquid, into the entrance to the ant nest and cover the opening with some dirt and press it down with the heel. The gas formed will penetrate to all parts of the nest. Where the area is too large to treat in this manner, other means used for killing outdoor ants will have to be employed.

House ants, interested in sweets, can be fed a mixture of sugar syrup and tartar emetic. Use cold water and add as much sugar as will dissolve in it. For each two-thirds of an ounce of sugar syrup add one gram of tartar emetic. Pour the mixture into shallow dishes and put them in places where the ants frequent. The ants drink the solution and then walk off to their nests and die.

The thief ant, the one interested in fats, can be treated with tartar emetic also. Rub it into fat bacon rind or on a ham bone that has some fat on it. Expose the meat in the line that the ants travel and they will soon gather on it. After eating it they will die.

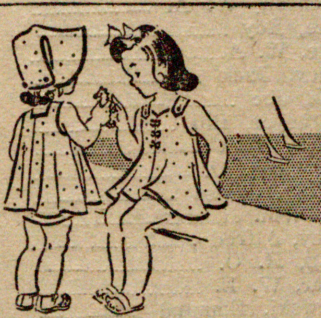

Another method of getting rid of this second type of ant is to watch untreated fat scraps until they are loaded with ants, then drop them into boiling water. This second treatment must be persistent to be effective.

'Nose' in Book

Chief Clerk John Donnelly of the Cleveland Municipal court, who is quite a reader, really found his nose in a book. While attempting to move a stack of books they slipped from under his chin and fell, allowing a pair of book ends to come together with considerable force with Donnelly's nose in between.

Mistakes to Be Avoided
In Summer Care of Dogs

"DOG DAYS" are coming, but they needn't bother your dog. With simple, right summer care he'll be healthy and cool as a cucumber!

Do not clip him, for he sheds his undercoat, leaving his outer coat to protect him against the hot sun, flies and mosquitoes.

Baths, Clipping Can Be Harmful.

Comb and brush him regularly—but do not give him too many baths, as this removes the oil he needs to keep his coat healthy.

Our 32-page booklet gives the simple all-year-round care that keeps a dog healthy. Tells how to choose your pet, feed, house-break and groom him; how to train him to do clever tricks. Advises on dog sicknesses; has information on rabies. For your copy send order to:

Three-Day Sabbath

The Kheyzurs of the Caucasus mountains of Russia are the only people who observe a three-day sabbath, Friday, Saturday and Sunday, reports Collier's. Their only liquor is a beer brewed and served by the church at religious festivals and whose women are forbidden to have children during the first three years of their married life.

"MIDDLE-AGE"
WOMEN [38-52
yrs. old]
HEED THIS ADVICE!!

Thousands of women are helped to go smiling thru distress peculiar to women—caused by this period in life—with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound—famous for over 60 years. Pinkham's Compound—made especially for women—has helped thousands to relieve such weak, nervous feelings due to this functional disturbance. Try it!

Small Details

To control our passions we must govern our habits, and keep watch over ourselves in the small details of every-day life.—Sir John Lubbock.

Watch Your Kidneys!

Help Them Cleanse the Blood of Harmful Body Waste

Your kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as Nature intended—fail to remove impurities that, if retained, may poison the system and upset the whole body machinery.
Symptoms may be nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—a feeling of nervous anxiety and loss of pep and strength.
Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, scanty or too frequent urination.
There should be no doubt that prompt treatment is wiser than neglect. Use Doan's Pills. Doan's have been winning new friends for more than forty years. They have a nation-wide reputation. Are recommended by grateful people the country over. Ask your neighbor!

Streamline the Harvest with the

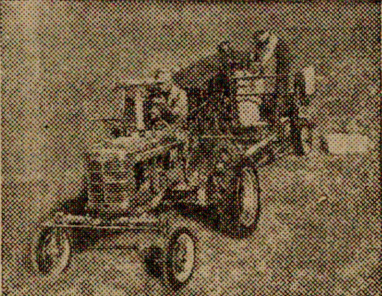

NEW 4-FOOT COMBINE

by INTERNATIONAL HARVESTER

HERE'S the sweetest little outfit that ever hummed through a harvest field—Harvester's brand-new 4-foot McCormick-Deering combine for power-drive operation behind a 1-plow tractor. The new No. 42 has everything its big brothers in the Harvester line have, plus new features for work on small farms. And here's the best part—you can get it at a price that's easy on your pocketbook!

One man can harvest and thresh in quick time with this fast-traveling combine. It steps along at the rate of 8 to 15 acres a day. It saves on equipment, twine, and threshing expense. It saves grain by doing the job in one operation—eliminating loss that comes with shocking, stacking, pitching, and hauling. It gets rid of extra help—saving food and work in the kitchen. See us about it now.

BAGGER EQUIPMENT, including wide, roomy platform with seat, and 2-way bagging spout, available if you prefer to handle your crops in bags.
